BENNY'S TRIAL BEGINS FEB. 14

Defense To Be Based On Ignorance That Jewels Were Being Smuggled

NEW YORK, Jan. 24—By agreement of counsel, the trial of Jack Benny, radio comedian, on a smuggling charge, was postponed today until Feb. 14.

Benny has pleaded not guilty to the indictment and his defense will be that he was not aware that jewelry which he purchased in Cannes, France, was afterward smuggled into the United States by another person.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Joseph Delaney is in Hollywood probing other angles on the smuggling charge.

HINES PUTTING PERSONAL OKAY ON ALL JURORS

NEW YORK, Jan. 24—With James J. ("Jimmy") Hines putting his personal okay on each juror before he is accepted, the re-trial of the Tammany district leader proceeded slowly today.

Juror number three, William C. Conger, an official of a carbonated water company, was chosen this morning. It required all day yesterday to pick the first two jurors.

Hines, who is charged by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey with having acted as political "fixer" for the late "Dutch" Schultz and his mob in the $20,000,000 a year numbers "racket", went into a huddle with his lawyers after the interrogation of each talesman.

Dewey, for the prosecution, and Lloyd P. Stryker, chief counsel for the defense, quizzed each talesman carefully and exhaustively.

Singing, Shouting, Talking Thanked For Keeping Up Spirit; Warmth Of Sea Noted; Captain Spurr Praised

NEW YORK, Jan. 24—Dramatic tales of heroism and gallantry at sea told by the 10 survivors of the ill-fated Imperial Airways flying boat Cavalier and their brave rescuers left the cause of the disaster a mystery today.

No official explanation of the sudden stalling of the four motors of the Bermuda-bound plane that sent it crashing to a rough sea 300 miles out Saturday afternoon with such force it shattered and sank in 10 minutes will be made until a board of inquiry meets in Canada, according to executives.

Capt. Griffiths Powell, operations manager who flew here from Bermuda, declined to hazard an opinion as to the cause of the tragedy. Equally reticent were Capt. M. R. Alderson of the Cavalier and his crew although the final SOS messages sent by the falling airliner hinted at icing of the carburetors.

Harrowing tales of clinging in daisy chain fashion to six life preservers for more than 10 hours until the oil tanker Esso Baytown and its modest skipper, Capt. Frank H. Spurr, snatched them from a death drawing ever near, were unfolded by the five men and five women survivors. Two of the women underwent the agonizing ordeal of watching their injured husbands slowly lose their grasp and drift away to death in the

NEW YORK, Jan. 24—With true wifely solicitude, Mrs. Neil Richardson, blonde wife of the first officer of the wrecked Cavalier, spent $2.50 for a new pipe for her husband in the certain belief he had lost his in the disaster along with most of his clothes.

To her amazement, Richardson was smoking his own blackened pipe when he left the rescue ship Esso Baytown.

Floating in the sea, he explained today, he kicked off his trousers for greater buoyancy. About two hours later he noticed his trousers floating back toward him. So he swam out to the floating pants and retrieved his crusty old pipe from the back pocket.

deep. They were soon followed by the valiant steward of the plane who had exhausted himself attending their needs.

Voices Bring Rescue
To keep alive their courage, they sang, shouted and conversed, until Capt. Spurr caught the sound of their voices and brought his ship to them by a nautical maneuver that evoked praise from a crew as modest as himself.

The 10 who lived to tell the story of their ordeal arrived aboard the tanker late yesterday afternoon to be given a noisy welcome somewhat tinged by sadness for the three missing. All in surprisingly good condition despite their struggle, the survivors were: Mrs. Donald Miller, Lincoln, Neb., and Mrs. J. Gordon Noakes, of Long Island, both widowed by the disaster, and Mrs. George Ing-ham, 24, Bermuda; Mrs. Edna Watson, 43, Bermuda; Charles Talbot, 23, Brookline, Mass.; Miss

SEN. TAFT URGES TWO RESERVOIRS FOR MILL CREEK

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—Senator Taft (R) Ohio, said today he will urge congressional authorization of construction of two reservoirs in Millcreek valley, Hamilton county, Ohio, for flood control purposes.

Asserting that Millcreek is without sufficient flood control facilities, Taft said construction of the reservoirs would be of benefit to the entire area, including the Ohio river.

Taft said also that construction of the reservoirs would provide the industries located in the Millcreek area a sufficient water supply in the dry summer months.

COURT TOURNEY TO BE STAGED IN RURAL GYMS

Superintendents Vote 9-4 To Refuse Rental Price Asked by C. A. C.

LOCATION NOT CERTAIN

Five Buildings Considered For Big Athletic Event

Pickaway county's basketball tournament will be sectionalized.

Superintendents of county schools, at a special meeting Monday evening, voted nine to four for sectionalization, removing the tournament from the Circleville Athletic club gymnasium.

The superintendents instructed the county tournament committee to work out plans for the sectional competition and to report at the next meeting of the group on Feb. 4.

The special meeting of the schoolmen was called after members of the tournament committee were unable to reach an agreement with club officials on the rental price for the gymnasium.

The club by a vote of the membership asked $250 for the gymnasium for the five sessions of the tournament, Feb. 17, 18, 23, 24 and 25. This price was later reduced to $200. Members of the county tournament committee refused to pay more than $25 a night, the amount paid in recent years.

It is the contention of club officials that the building cannot be rented for a price lower than $40 due to expenses involved. The tournament committee considered the price too high for the accommodations provided.

Five Recommended

Schools recommended for the tournament contests are Ashville, New Holland, Scioto, Darby and Pickaway. In selecting the sites the committee must take into consideration the advantages of the locations and seating capacity and obtain prices and permission from the boards of education.

A suggestion was made also that a large gymnasium in Columbus be rented for the finals. This angle was not discussed in detail.

The negotiations with the C.A.C. were reviewed by Myron T. Johnson, superintendent of Pickaway township school, chairman of the tournament committee. He explained the committee had decided not to increase the original offer and the opinions of the other superintendents were desired.

Although no representatives of civic organizations were present, it was reported that merchants offered to aid in financing the tournament. The schoolmen were of the opinion it would not be fair to ask outside aid in the program.

To aid in reaching a decision, George McDowell, superintendent of county schools, suggested the advantages and disadvantages of the gymnasium as a tournament site be listed.

Advantages, Disadvantages

The advantages mentioned included a central location, room for larger crowds, possible increased revenue, use of the same officials and more parking space for cars. Disadvantages included too much for rental, poor seating facilities, poor lighting, expense of janitor service, poor backboards, showers and ventilation, more incidental expenses and the necessity of hauling bleachers.

A Wendell Boyer, superintendent of Deer Creek township school, made the motion that the tournament be sectionalized and the committee work out plans for the

NAZI PAPER DECLARES ROOSEVELT 'KERENSKY OF WORLD REVOLUTION'

BERLIN, Jan. 24—The newspaper Boersen Zeitung attacked President Roosevelt today as the "Kerensky of the world revolution."

Commenting on a telegram sent by Earl Browder, head of the Communist party in the United States, to Moscow, in which Browder allegedly praised President Roosevelt for his challenges to Fascism, the paper said:

"This means the appointment of Roosevelt as the Kerensky of world revolution. Roosevelt is on the way which, Moscow hopes, will lead to world revolution after the people have weakened from general conflict."

Gale Sweeps Lake Region; Three Cars Collide On Route 56

CHICAGO, Jan. 24—The Midwest today plowed through one of the heaviest snowfalls of the winter that swirled across the Great Plains in the wake of a brief but bitter cold wave.

The snow, blanketed a wide area, extending as far south as Oklahoma City and eastward from the Rocky mountains.

Airplane traffic was disrupted for a time and many highways were reported blocked by drifts, piled up by the high winds.

Two car ferries were driven into a concrete breakwater near Ludington, Mich. by the gale that whipped across Lake Michigan and three fishermen were marooned on an ice floe that broke loose in Lake Huron.

The cold was blamed for at least thirty deaths across the country. Overheated stoves caused a number of fatal fires and ex-

PICKERINGTON, Jan. 24—Nineteen persons were recovering today from a violent illness caused by eating buckwheat cakes mixed with nightshade, a poisonous weed.

Dr. W. B. Taylor said the weed probably became mixed with the buckwheat during harvesting season.

Those stricken included Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Conkle and their three children; three persons in the Frank Conkle family; four in the Ralph Nessley family; three in the John Harmon family and five in the Virgil Trimmer family. The buckwheat, Taylor said, was sold by Vernon Conkle.

Nine of those stricken were still in bed today but Taylor said they would recover.

RINK' EXPLOSION IN GREENVILLE FATAL TO YOUTH

GREENVILLE, Jan. 24—An explosion of undetermined origin was blamed today for the $25,000 fire at "Skateland" which sent 80 skaters scurrying to the street and caused the death by suffocation of 12 year old Richard Marshall.

Young Marshall, witnesses said, ran to safety and then reentered the burning building. His body was found in a cloakroom.

The building was used as a dance hall until six years ago when it was converted into a skating rink.

The estate of Milton S. Bartholomew, of New Holland, is valued at $44,828 in an inventory filed Monday in Probate court. The report lists personal property at $4,245, bonds, notes and securities $14,053.23, and real estate $26,530.

Huge Expansion Program Begins At Purina Plant

Milling Company To Double Capacity For Grain, Feed Storage

EXCAVATION UNDER WAY

Continued Improvement Of Business Noted By Manager Rowland

The Ralston Purina company's confidence in Circleville as a manufacturing center and the outlook for better business conditions were clearly indicated Tuesday by the announcement of a huge expansion program at the local plant.

Ray Rowland, plant manager, and Jay Clark, plant superintendent, announced preliminary work was under way on a program to double the grain and feed storage capacity of the plant.

Concrete grain storage tanks with a capacity of 250,000 bushels will be constructed and two new buildings will be erected. The new storage tanks will be located southwest of the present tanks, built in 1936, which have a storage capacity of 200,000 bushels. The new tanks will be erected in the same manner as those built three years ago. They will be of slip form construction.

The old brick building at the plant, on Court street will be razed and a two-story metal clad building will be constructed on that site. This building will be used for storage space for feed.

At the rear of this building a three story metal clad building will be constructed to house new manufacturing units for livestock and poultry feed. Warehousing space at the plant will be increased about 30,000 square feet. Space in the present plant now used for feed machinery will be used for storage.

Excavation Begins

Preliminary work was started Monday on excavations for the two-story building.

The Jones-Hettelsater Co., of Kansas City, Mo., is contractor for the expansion program. This firm erected the present storage tanks at the plant three years ago. J. M. McDuffy is the superintendent in charge of construction.

During 1938, Mr. Rowland explained, the business of the firm increased 20 percent over 1937. During 1937, he pointed out, business showed an increase of 50 percent over 1936.

The Circleville plant uses approximately 3,200 bushels of soybeans daily. During January the plant expects to run 93,000 bushels of beans.

Expansion Each Year

The Ralston Purina company has been in Circleville for five years and annually has made some expansion at its plant. The program just announced will be the largest made at any one time. During 1938 the company paid out $134,000 in wages, local taxes and insurance premiums.

The construction work necessary for the expansion program will require three to four months. This will be followed by the installation of machinery.

'DADS' GRAPPLE WITH DISPOSAL PLANT PROBLEM

Council will meet at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday as a committee to start thrashing out some system of assessments for operation of the new municipal disposal plant to be ready for operation on Feb. 1. So far the city dads have decided on no schedule of charges or the exact method of making charges.

The problem is complicated by the city's industrial wastes. Council will hold an adjourned session Wednesday night for further consideration of the problem with Floyd G. Browne, of Marion, engineer for the project.

King for Spain?

ACCORDING to diplomatic reports, the Duke of Aosta, Fascist member of the Italian royal family, will be proclaimed king of Spain by General Francisco Franco in event of an insurgent victory, in payment for Mussolini's aid in the civil war. Franco would be premier.

HOPKINS OKAYED, BUT AMLIE MAY FACE REJECTION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—On the heels of the spectacular senate row over the elevation of Harry L. Hopkins to the cabinet, President Roosevelt apparently invited another one today in his nomination of Thomas R. Amlie of Wisconsin, to be a member of the Interstate Commerce commission.

Amlie is a lame-duck progressive, who served three terms in the house, and was beaten last November in his bid for election to the senate. He is considerably to the left of the New Deal in his economic philosophy, and has been a persistent advocate of a realignment of political parties.

His nomination to the I.C.C., a quasi-judicial body, under the circumstances, came as a surprise, and was met with unmistakable signs of a forthcoming fight that may rival or exceed the battle which ended late yesterday by the senate's 58 to 27 confirmation of Hopkins.

CARR GIVES UP JOB AS HIGHWAY PERSONNEL BOSS

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—The $3,600 a year personnel supervisor's position in the state highway department was vacant today after the resignation of J. Matthew Carr, of Dennison.

Carr resigned late yesterday and State Highway Director Robert S. Beightler said removal charges filed against Carr with the Civil Service Commission would be withdrawn. Carr had been under suspension.

Beightler asked Carr for his resignation shortly after assuming office Jan. 9, but Carr proposed to fight his removal via the Civil Service Commission.

Charges that Carr was instrumental in causing destruction of records in 10 of 12 division offices and with soliciting civil service employees for political campaign fund contributions were made by Beightler later.

No successor to Carr, who has held the job since the Governor White administration, has been named.

Insurgent Leader Declares 22 Towns, 2,000 Troops Captured

LERIDA, Spain, Jan. 24—The vanguard of insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco's advancing troops has reached a point within sight of Barcelona, which is now under direct artillery fire, according to an insurgent communique today.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—Thirty Americans, caught in the heavy fighting around Barcelona, Spain, will be evacuated today by the U. S. S. Omaha and an accompanying American destroyer, it was announced at the state department.

VALENCIA, Spain, Jan. 24—Ten huge Savoia planes today dropped more than one hundred bombs on the port area and Nazaret district of Valencia in an insurgent raid which destroyed eight houses and damaged several foreign merchant vessels.

LONDON, Jan. 24—Ministries of the Spanish government have been evacuated from the beleaguered city of Barcelona, according to reports from Perpignan on the Franco-Spanish frontier, Reuters News agency reported today from Paris.

Despite the removal of the ministries, the Spanish government is still at Barcelona, the dispatch said.

According to Reuters, the various ministries were evacuated from Barcelona and moved to the North, either to Gerona or Figueras.

The French embassy, it was stated, will be evacuated and follow the ministers.

Loyalists Resisting

Another Reuters dispatch from Paris said the Spanish government troops were still resisting the insurgents in the field, although no detailed information on the situation had been received over the French border today.

Barcelona, Reuters said, was bombed again this morning.

LERIDA, Spain, Jan. 24—Driving forward against Barcelona, Generalissimo Francisco Franco's insurgent legions claimed today to have captured 22 government villages on the northern, southern and central sectors of the Catalan front.

Two thousand government soldiers were taken prisoner, Franco's Lerida headquarters asserted, as the insurgents pushed forward an average of four and a quarter miles all along the battle line to the vicinity of the Llobregat river.

MARKET STEADIES AFTER MONDAY'S BIG PRICE DROP

NEW YORK, Jan. 24—The stock market steadied today in the wake of yesterday's spectacular break of 1 to 9 points, but recovery efforts failed to carry far.

At the opening some leaders were up one to two points. Volume dried up later and the general market gradually slipped but gains continued to predominate. Improved speculative sentiment was reflected in firmer European markets prior to the New York opening. Paris was mixed, while London and Amsterdam showed little change from the previous close.

POOR AID BILL STUMPS SOLONS

Fight Over Clause Calling For Matching Prevents Act's Passage

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—Unable to reach a rapid agreement on the $5,000,000 poor relief bill in the welfare committee, Republican leaders today moved to shunt the measure to the finance committee for immediate action on the floor of the house.

Under the guidance of Republican Majority Leader J. Harry McGreggor, author of the stop gap proposal, the finance committee will act on the appropriation of $5,000,000 and recommend the bill for passage.

This decision was reached when it became apparent that the welfare committee was riding the merry-go-round that has been leading legislators a breath-taking pace since late in the last assembly when urban counties began opposing relief matching by political subdivisions.

Rep. Patrick J. Monahan (D-Cuyahoga) made an unsuccessful attempt to have the matching clause stricken from the bill by an amendment, but it lost, 8 to 4. Another amendment of Monahan's to increase the percentage of administrative costs from 10 to 16 was passed after Rep. L. H. Myers (R-Allen) amended it to 12 percent.

CLEVELAND BOY FACES PEN FOR KILLING FATHER

CLEVELAND, Jan. 24—Steve Turcoy, Jr., 19, who readily admitted shooting his 46 year old father to death, today faced one to 20 years in the state reformatory. Turcoy was convicted of manslaughter by a jury of eight men and four women that deliberated approximately an hour and a half. In pronouncing sentence, Common Pleas Judge Frank S. Day told the youth that leniency on the part of the prosecutor allowed him to be tried for manslaughter instead of first degree murder.

Turcoy, his mother, Rose, and others of the eight children, testified that the elder Turcoy had not worked to support the family in 15 years, that he was continually intoxicated, and that he beat Mrs. Turcoy and the children. A member of the jury said after the trial that the defendant might have been acquitted if he had fired but one shot at his father. Seven shots were fired from a small caliber pistol.

Huge Expansion Program Begins At Purina Plant

Milling Company To Double Capacity For Grain, Feed Storage

EXCAVATION UNDER WAY

Continued Improvement Of Business Noted By Manager Rowland

The Ralston Purina company's confidence in Circleville as a manufacturing center and the outlook for better business conditions were clearly indicated Tuesday by the announcement of a huge expansion program at the local plant.

Ray Rowland, plant manager, and Jay Clark, plant superintendent, announced preliminary work was under way on a program to double the grain and feed storage capacity of the plant.

Concrete grain storage tanks with a capacity of 250,000 bushels will be constructed and two new buildings will be erected. The new storage tanks will be located southwest of the present tanks, built in 1936, which have a storage capacity of 200,000 bushels. The new tanks will be erected in the same manner as those built three years ago. They will be of slip form construction.

The old brick building at the plant, on Court street will be razed and a two-story metal clad building will be constructed on that site. This building will be used for storage space for feed. At the rear of this building a three story metal clad building will be constructed to house new manufacturing units for livestock and poultry feed. Warehousing space at the plant will be increased about 30,000 square feet. Space in the present plant now used for feed machinery will be used for storage.

Excavation Begins

Preliminary work was started Monday on excavations for the two-story building.

The Jones-Hettelsater Co., of Kansas City, Mo., is contractor for the expansion program. This firm erected the present storage tanks at the plant three years ago. J. M. McDuffy is the superintendent in charge of construction.

During 1938, Mr. Rowland explained, the business of the firm increased 20 percent over 1937. During 1937, he pointed out, business showed an increase of 50 percent over 1936.

The Circleville plant uses approximately 3,200 bushels of soybeans daily. During January the plant expects to run 93,000 bushels of beans.

Expansion Each Year

The Ralston Purina company has been in Circleville for five years and annually has made some expansion at its plant. The program just announced will be the largest made at any one time. During 1938 the company paid out $134,000 in wages, local taxes and insurance premiums.

The construction work necessary for the expansion program will require three to four months. This will be followed by the installation of machinery.

'DADS' GRAPPLE WITH DISPOSAL PLANT PROBLEM

Council will meet at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday as a committee to start thrashing out some system of assessments for operation of the new municipal disposal plant to be ready for operation on Feb. 1. So far the city dads have decided on no schedule of charges or the exact method of making charges.

The problem is complicated by the city's industrial wastes. Council will hold an adjourned session Wednesday night for further consideration of the problem with Floyd G. Browne, of Marion, engineer for the project.

King for Spain?

ACCORDING to diplomatic reports, the Duke of Aosta, Fascist member of the Italian royal family, will be proclaimed king of Spain by General Francisco Franco in event of an insurgent victory, in payment for Mussolini's aid in the civil war. Franco would be premier.

HOPKINS OKAYED, BUT AMLIE MAY FACE REJECTION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—On the heels of the spectacular senate row over the elevation of Harry L. Hopkins to the cabinet, President Roosevelt apparently invited another one today in his nomination of Thomas R. Amlie of Wisconsin, to be a member of the Interstate Commerce commission.

Amlie is a lame-duck progressive, who served three terms in the house, and was beaten last November in his bid for election to the senate. He is considerably to the left of the New Deal in his economic philosophy, and has been a persistent advocate of a realignment of political parties.

His nomination to the I.C.C., a quasi-judicial body, under the circumstances, came as a surprise, and was met with unmistakable signs of a forthcoming fight that may rival or exceed the battle which ended late yesterday by the senate's 58 to 27 confirmation of Hopkins.

CARR GIVES UP JOB AS HIGHWAY PERSONNEL BOSS

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—The $3,600 a year personnel supervisor's position in the state highway department was vacant today after the resignation of J. Matthew Carr, of Dennison.

Carr resigned late yesterday and State Highway Director Robert S. Beightler said removal charges filed against Carr with the Civil Service Commission would be withdrawn. Carr had been under suspension.

Beightler asked Carr for his resignation shortly after assuming office Jan. 9, but Carr proposed to fight his removal via the Civil Service Commission.

Charges that Carr was instrumental in causing destruction of records in 10 of 12 division offices and with soliciting civil service employees for political campaign fund contributions were made by Beightler later.

No successor to Carr, who has held the job since the Governor White administration, has been named.

GERMAN MINISTRY DENIES MANEUVERS IN FEBRUARY

BERLIN, Jan. 24—The German propaganda ministry, after consulting the war ministry, today issued a strong, official denial of reports that Reich troop maneuvers are scheduled for February.

Insurgent Leader Declares 22 Towns, 2,000 Troops Captured

LERIDA, Spain, Jan. 24—The vanguard of insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco's advancing troops has reached a point within sight of Barcelona, which is now under direct artillery fire, according to an insurgent communique today.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—Thirty Americans, caught in the heavy fighting around Barcelona, Spain, will be evacuated today by the U. S. S. Omaha and an accompanying American destroyer, it was announced at the state department.

VALENCIA, Spain, Jan. 24—Ten huge Savoia planes today dropped more than one hundred bombs on the port area and Nazaret district of Valencia in an insurgent raid which destroyed eight houses and damaged several foreign merchant vessels.

LONDON, Jan. 24—Ministries of the Spanish government have been evacuated from the beleaguered city of Barcelona, according to reports from Perpignan on the Franco-Spanish frontier. Reuters News agency reported today from Paris.

Despite the removal of the ministries, the Spanish government is still at Barcelona, the dispatch said.

According to Reuters, the various ministries were evacuated from Barcelona and moved to the North, either to Gerona or Figueras.

The French embassy, it was stated, will be evacuated and follow the ministries.

Loyalists Resisting

Another Reuters dispatch from Paris said the Spanish government troops were still resisting the insurgents in the field, although no detailed information on the situation had been received over the French border today.

Barcelona, Reuters said, was bombed again this morning.

LERIDA, Spain, Jan. 24—Driving forward against Barcelona, Generalissimo Francisco Franco's insurgent legions claimed today to have captured 22 government villages on the northern, southern and central sectors of the Catalan front.

Two thousand government soldiers were taken prisoner, Franco's Lerida headquarters asserted, as the insurgents pushed forward an average of four and a quarter miles all along the battle line to the vicinity of the Llobregat river.

MARKET STEADIES AFTER MONDAY'S BIG PRICE DROP

NEW YORK, Jan. 24—The stock market steadied today in the wake of yesterday's spectacular break of 1 to 9 points, but recovery efforts failed to carry far.

At the opening some leaders were up one to two points. Volume dried up later and the general market gradually slipped but gains continued to predominate. Improved speculative sentiment was reflected in firmer European markets prior to the New York opening. Paris was mixed, while London and Amsterdam showed little change from the previous close.

SURVIVORS TELL RESCUE STORY

Nellie Smith, 34, Bermuda; Capt. Alderson; First Officer Neil Richardson; Radio Officer Patrick Chapman, and Steward David Williams.

The missing were J. Gordon Noakes, 57, president of a New York fur auction company; Donald W. Miller, a merchant of Lincoln, Neb., and Robert Spence, the steward.

Mrs. Noakes Collapses Hysterically weeping, Mrs. Noakes collapsed when she was greeted by her daughter and three sons. Mrs. Miller bore up bravely when she left the ice-sheathed rescue ship.

"The plane had been flying through a bad hail and snowstorm and then it happened," related Mrs. Watson, a former Montreal girl now residing in Bermuda.

"As we hit the water, one of the stewards dragged me out of the plane and through the pantry window. I was in the middle compartment and before I could get out the water was up to my knees.

"Captain Alderson gave me his life belt. We all fastened on our life belts and when the ship went down we all tried to find each other out in the water.

"We had one nasty rainstorm while we were waiting in the water but the water itself was fairly warm.

"We thought we saw some sharks once. The bodies of those who had to let go were floating around and we thought there might be sharks. But as far as I know, there were none."

One fortunate circumstance for the survivors as they clung together in the darkness was the warmth of the water estimated at 72 degrees. Another was the windless calm that permitted the shouts of Chapman and Richardson who swam a half mile out to hail the Esso Baytown which had already once passed the survivors in the darkness to carry to the rescue ship. The Baytown then picked them out with its powerful searchlight and put out a lifeboat.

The boat was later abandoned to the angry waves after all had been removed when Capt. Spurr decided against risking the peril of raising it again in the high sea.

Richardson attributed the warmth of the water to the Gulf stream in which he said the ship fell.

"Our being alive is a miracle," said Talbot, a Harvard graduate, whose feat in staying afloat with one arm bandaged as a result of a sinking accident, was something of a miracle itself.

To Capt. Spurr who was rewarded with a dinner of roast chicken and peas, his favorite dish, by his sister, Mrs. Robert Bumstead, of Westfield, N. J., the rescue was "nothing at all."

"It was just something that is done ashore as it is at sea when the occasion arises," was his modest explanation.

But John Goodwin, an able seaman on the Baytown, believed differently.

"Put in a good word for the captain. His beautiful navigation made this rescue possible. He hit the position smack on the nose in the darkness. He knew where they ought to have been and he brought us right there to rescue them."

Mrs. Myrtle Puckett and son, Hubert, of Watt street, and Montford Kirkwood, Jr., of S. Court street, accompanied Mrs. Puckett's brother to his home at Valley Springs, near Kansas City, Kans., leaving Sunday by motor.

Mrs. C. E. Meyers of near Stoutsville and Mrs. Cliff Miller of Pickaway township left Sunday for Chicago, Ill., where they will visit Mrs. Meyers' son, George R. Meyers.

Mr. and Mrs. James King and sons, David and Richard, of Columbus were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Bennett and family of N. Court street.

Temperature in Circleville varied only one degree from Monday afternoon until Tuesday. Highest temperature Monday was 35 degrees. The lowest during the night was 34.

A light snow Monday night made driving hazardous. Charles Mowery, highway superintendent, reported brick and concrete roads were the most dangerous. Employees of the department sanded grades and intersections Tuesday morning.

One auto accident was reported to the sheriff's department. Autos driven by Miss Rosemary Clark, Williamsport; James Tootle, Williamsport Route 1, and Lewis F. Beery, Ashville, were involved in a mishap on Route 104 about a half mile north of Route 56.

Officers said Miss Clark was driving southward on the highway. Her car was followed by the one driven by Mr. Beery. The car driven by Mr. Tootle, going northward, and Miss Clark's car collided, then the Tootle car struck Mr. Beery's car. No one was hurt and the damage to the cars was slight, officers said. The accident was reported at 6:30 p. m.

BUCKEYES WIN OVER MICHIGAN IN FAST GAME

Loss Of Forward Hurts Wolverine's Chances Against Ohioans

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—Ohio State was tied with Indiana's Indians for second place in the Big Ten cage race today after coming from behind last night to upset Michigan, 45 to 31, before a crowd of 9,605 unruly spectators.

The Bucks, paced by Johnny Schick and Dick Boughner, went into an early 5 to 0 lead but as the half progressed, fell behind the slow starting Wolverines.

Near the end of the first half, the Scarlet and Gray cagers were trailing 23 to 16 but rallied and brought their total to 20 at half-time.

Presenting an airtight defense, the ultimate winners, with Lynch and Captain Jimmy Hull on a scoring spree, tied the score at 28-28 midway in the second half and then ran roughshod over Michigan for the remainder of the game.

Pink Lost to Wolves Michigan collapsed when Forward Pink was forced to leave the game because of cramps. His teammates folded momentarily and when they recovered the damage had been done and State was out in front.

Tom Harmon, Michigan's plunging football back, played a nice game at forward and accumulated nine points for himself.

Hull made 16 for Ohio State and Lynch, shooting from almost the middle of the coliseum, turned in 13 points.

Minnesota whipped Illinois 35 to 33 in an airtight battle before 14,600 fans to take first place in the Conference race.

The big Gophers, paced by Forward Addington, who scored 13 points, came from behind several times and won out in the last few seconds when Addington sneaked through for a field goal to shatter a 33 to 33 deadlock.

Pick Dehner, center, made 10 points for the losers and forward Hapac accounted for 13 for the Illini.

TWO BATTLERS END TRAINING FOR TITLE BOUT

NEW YORK, Jan. 24—Joe Louis and John Henry Lewis completed their training today for their 15-round heavyweight championship battle tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden in their characteristically different ways.

John Henry, the challenger, took a brisk two mile walk after breakfast at his training camp in Summit, N. J., Joe, the champion, lolled about his camp at Pompton Lakes, N. J., taking it easy as is his wont.

The two battler will weigh in at the headquarters of the state athletic commission at noon tomorrow, according to instructions given Promoter Mike Jacobs.

Jacobs was keeping his figures for the advance ticket sales hidden in his hat but with his usual frank optimism said the gate would be more than $100,000.

The heavyweight champ concluded training weighing 200 1/2 pounds and John Henry, recognized as light-heavyweight champ of the world in all states except New York, finished at 183 1/4.

MAYOR WARNS OF HEAVY FINES FOR INTOXICATION

"Habitual drunkards may expect some heavy penalties in my court from now on," Mayor W. B. Cady announced Tuesday after assessing Sam Birchwell, 54, of Circleville, $50 and costs on an intoxication charge. Birchwell was committed to the county jail.

"Some are out of jail one week and back in the next," the mayor explained. "I expect to start hanging some heavy fines on them."

Henry Smith, 346 Logan street, was fined $15 and costs on an intoxication charge. He arranged to settle.

MRS. A. DRESBACH DIES Relatives have received word of the death Monday in Northville, Mich., of Mrs. Alfred Dresbach. Mrs. Dresbach was a sister-in-law of Mrs. Ben Hedges and Miss Mattie Dresbach of Ashville. Mr. Dresbach is a brother-in-law of George F. Grand-Girard.

Nellie Smith, 34, Bermuda; Capt. Alderson; First Officer Neil Richardson; Radio Officer Patrick Chapman, and Steward David Williams.

The missing were J. Gordon Noakes, 57, president of a New York fur auction company; Donald W. Miller, a merchant of Lincoln, Neb., and Robert Spence, the steward.

Mrs. Noakes Collapses

Hysterically weeping, Mrs. Noakes collapsed when she was greeted by her daughter and three sons, Mrs. Miller bore up bravely when she left the ice-sheathed rescue ship.

"The plane had been flying through a bad hail and snowstorm and then it happened," related Mrs. Watson, a former Montreal girl now residing in Bermuda.

"As we hit the water, one of the stewards dragged me out of the plane and through the pantry window. I was in the middle compartment and before I could get out the water was up to my knees. "Captain Alderson gave me his life belt. We all fastened on our life belts and when the ship went down we all tried to find each other out in the water.

"We had one nasty rainstorm while we were waiting in the water but the water itself was fairly warm. "We thought we saw some sharks once. The bodies of those who had to let go were floating around and we thought there might be sharks. But as far as I know, there were none."

One fortunate circumstance for the survivors as they clung together in the darkness was the warmth of the water estimated at 72 degrees. Another was the windless calm that permitted the shouts of Chapman and Richardson who swam a half mile out to hail the Esso Baytown which had already once passed the survivors in the darkness to carry to the rescue ship. The Baytown then picked them out with its powerful searchlight and put out a lifeboat. The boat was later abandoned to the angry waves after all had been removed when Capt. Spurr decided against risking the peril of raising it again in the high sea.

Richardson attributed the warmth of the water to the Gulf stream in which he said the ship fell.

"Our being alive is a miracle," said Talbot, a Harvard graduate, whose feat in staying afloat with one arm bandaged as a result of a sking accident, was something of a miracle itself.

To Capt. Spurr who was rewarded with a dinner of roast chicken and peas, his favorite dish, by his sister, Mrs. Robert Bumstead, of Westfield, N. J., the rescue was "nothing at all."

"It was just something that is done ashore as it is at sea when the occasion arises," was his modest explanation. But John Goodwin, an able seaman on the Baytown, believed differently.

"Put in a good word for the captain. His beautiful navigation made this rescue possible. He hit the position smack on the nose in the darkness. He knew where they ought to have been and he brought us right there to rescue them."

Mrs. Myrtle Puckett and son, Hubert, of Watt street, and Montford Kirkwood, Jr., of S. Court street, accompanied Mrs. Puckett's brother to his home at Valley Springs, near Kansas City, Kans., leaving Sunday by motor.

Mrs. C. E. Meyers of near Stoutsville and Mrs. Cliff Miller of Pickaway township left Sunday for Chicago, Ill., where they will visit Mrs. Meyers' son, George R. Meyers.

Mr. and Mrs. James King and sons, David and Richard, of Columbus were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Bennett and family of N. Court street.

Temperature in Circleville varied only one degree from Monday afternoon until Tuesday. Highest temperature Monday was 35 degrees. The lowest during the night was 34.

A light snow Monday night made driving hazardous. Charles Mowery, highway superintendent, reported brick and concrete roads were the most dangerous. Employees of the department sanded grades and intersections Tuesday morning.

One auto accident was reported to the sheriff's department. Autos driven by Miss Rosemary Clark, Williamsport; James Tootle, Williamsport; Route 1, and Lewis F. Beery, Ashville, were involved in a mishap on Route 104 about a half mile north of Route 56.

Officers said Miss Clark was driving southward on the highway. Her car was followed by the one driven by Mr. Beery. The car driven by Mr. Tootle, going northward, and Miss Clark's car collided, then the Tootle car struck Mr. Beery's car. No one was hurt and the damage to the cars was slight, officers said. The accident was reported at 6:30 p. m.

FIRST CROP CONFERENCE MEETINGS TO BE TUESDAY

The first of the series of meetings in various townships to explain the 1939 farm program to rural residents will be held Tuesday night. Madison and Wayne township residents will attend meetings in their respective schools. Residents of Circleville and Washington townships will meet at the Washington school. Meetings Wednesday will be held in the Saltcreek and Pickaway township schools and in Harrison township at the Duval schools. All meetings are scheduled at 7:30 o'clock.

BUCKEYES WIN OVER MICHIGAN IN FAST GAME

Loss Of Forward Hurts Wolverine's Chances Against Ohioans

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—Ohio State was tied with Indiana's Indians for second place in the Big Ten cage race today after coming from behind last night to upset Michigan, 45 to 31, before a crowd of 9,605 unruly spectators.

The Bucks, paced by Johnny Schick and Dick Boughner, went into an early 5 to 0 lead but as the half progressed, fell behind the slow starting Wolverines.

Near the end of the first half, the Scarlet and Gray cagers were trailing 23 to 16 but rallied and brought their total to 20 at half-time.

Presenting an airtight defense, the ultimate winners, with Lynch and Captain Jimmy Hull on a scoring spree, tied the score at 28-28 midway in the second half and than ran roughshod over Michigan for the remainder of the game.

Pink Lost to Wolves

Michigan collapsed when Forward Pink was forced to leave the game because of cramps. His teammates folded momentarily and when they recovered the damage had been done and State was out in front.

Tom Harmon, Michigan's plunging football tackle, played a nice game at forward and accumulated nine points for himself.

Hull made 16 for Ohio State and Lynch, shooting from almost the middle of the coliseum, turned in 13 points.

Minnesota whipped Illinois 35 to 33 in an airtight battle before 14,600 fans to take first place in the Conference race.

The big Gophers, paced by Forward Addington, who scored 13 points, came from behind several times and won out in the last few seconds when Addington sneaked through for a field goal to shatter a 33 to 33 deadlock.

Pick Dehner, center, made 10 points for the losers and forward Hapac accounted for 13 for the Illinois.

TWO BATTLERS END TRAINING FOR TITLE BOUT

NEW YORK, Jan. 24—Joe Louis and John Henry Lewis completed their training today for their 15-round heavyweight championship battle tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden in their characteristically different ways.

John Henry, the challenger, took a brisk two mile walk after breakfast at his training camp in Summit, N. J., Joe, the champion, lolled about his camp at Pompton Lakes, N. J., taking it easy as is his wont.

The two battlers will weigh in at the headquarters of the state athletic commission at noon tomorrow, according to instructions given Promoter Mike Jacobs.

Jacobs was keeping his figures for the advance ticket sales hidden in his hat but with his usual frank optimism said the gate would be more than $100,000.

The heavyweight champ concluded training weighing 200 1/2 pounds and John Henry, recognized as light-heavyweight champ of the world in all states except New York, finished at 183 1/4.

JERSEY SOLON SEEKS OUSTER OF LABOR CHIEF

Rep. Thomas To Take Action
On House Floor Despite
Strong Pressure

MISS PERKINS ASSAILED

Failure To Deport Harry
Bridges Blamed For
Impeachment Plea

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—Refusing to yield to strong pressure to abandon his plan, Rep. J. Parnell Thomas (R) of New Jersey, said he will rise in the house today and seek the impeachment of Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins.

Clothing the nature of his indictment of the first woman cabinet officer in secrecy, Thomas indicated to friends that he will charge Miss Perkins with failure to enforce the immigration and deportation laws.

Thomas, it was learned, has been asked by leading Democrats and Republicans in the house to abandon his move against Miss Perkins. Confident that the evidence justifies his course, he proposed that the charges he will prefer against Miss Perkins be referred to the house judiciary committee for complete investigation.

Meantime friends of Miss Perkins rallied to her defense. There were two courses open—to move to table the impeachment resolution or allow it to go to the judiciary committee. If the first move is made, there will be an immediate showdown.

Action Defended

Miss Perkins defended her action against charges made by the Dies un-American activities investigating committee, in a letter to Mrs. Mary T. Norton (D) of New Jersey, chairman of the house labor committee. She specifically defended her action in suspending deportation proceedings against Harry Bridges, West Coast C.I.O. maritime leader, to await a supreme court decision in another case. She also defended her failure to deport Joseph Kolwaski, who once had been deported to Russia because of Communist activities. She said both Poland and Russia refused to honor his passport.

Chairman Dies (D) of Texas, disclaiming any connection with the Thomas impeachment move and his committee's report, challenged Miss Perkins' statement that Russia will not accept Kolwaski. Thomas is a member of the Dies committee.

"Kolwaski was deported once to Russia because of Communist activities in this country," said Dies. "They placed him in charge of a prison in Russia and he became a member of the secret police. If they won't take him back, we ought to break off diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia. It is strange if they don't take back a man they once honored. Do they want to keep him in America?"

"With regard to denials that Harry Bridges is a Communist, there are in Miss Perkins' file many depositions by witnesses who swore under oath that he was a Communist, that they saw him pay dues."

"Does not the law require the secretary of labor to insist on a minimum bond of $500 when an alien is released in a deportation proceeding?" Dies asserted that Bridges was released on his own recognizance.

Hatchery Men Prepare For Their Spring Work

By S. D. Fridley
Phone Ashville, 79

Ran across a fine lot of baby chicks, some ten days old, and Easter coming this year beyond March, April 9, these chicks will be just right broilers by then. And more evidence of Spring, the incubator boys who hatch chicks by the thousand are cleaning up their machines, placing select eggs where best results may be had—Walter Hedges said he is getting his ten thousand egg machine ready now and may place eggs in it yet this week.

Ashville—John Wilson, the Crites cannery field man who contracts acreage for both peas and sweet corn, told us that he has already some few contracts and will be after getting more before so long now. The seeding of peas is some six weeks away yet and there is plenty of time for the getting ready. Just what the acreage will be for this year, has not been decided on yet.

Ashville—John Clenden, over Williamsport way, was here Monday and in conversation with him he asked us if we remembered what brand of weather we had just three years ago the 22nd of this month? And when we told him that we could not recall it, told us it was exactly 22 degrees below zero. A lot of snow and in drifts, he said. George Peters, one of the reliable at headquarters, said that he quite well remembered it because he didn't get much else done but shovel coal in the furnace and keep the water pipes from freezing.

Ashville—The county library truck was here Monday and did its usual good business. More readers in the long Winter evenings than in the busy Summer time, those in charge, told us.

Ashville—G. A. Hook and family attended the funeral of their aunt, Mrs. Amelia Brehm, at Chillicothe. Mrs. Sim Childers of Indianapolis is here visiting at the home of her parents, John and Mrs. Cloud. Rev. Boyd Rife of the Washington avenue United Brethren church of Columbus was a visitor in Ashville Monday.

Ashville—Out "on the rounds" yesterday to see what, if anything was stirring in the news line. Tough day for news for "nobody knew nothing"—paging the English kiddies. No big questions seemed to be before The Court except the rural carrier appointment and that's got down to a whisper and that not very loud.

Ashville—According to County game warden Francis near 400 extra rabbits have been brought into and released in different parts of the county for propagating purposes. And by a true story handed out at headquarters a few days ago, Cecil Noecker is overstocked with this sort of wild game now without taking on any additional. A big ruckus of some sort was going on down cellar way a few days ago at the Noecker home according to Cecil. An easy and quiet peep down below sighted some less than a dozen bunnies having a hot-tilt game of football, sockball or something of the sort for the apples, potatoes and turnips were a flying every which way and scoring a hit most every time. Cecil thinks it was one of those "hilarious parties" like people have sometimes, because the lid was off the sauerkraut jar and the juice all gone.

PETTENGILL

"The Gentleman from Indiana"

GARNER OF TEXAS

As matters stand today and promise to continue for some months at least, John Nance Garner of Uvalde, Texas, is the most powerful Vice President in American history.

Nothing like the present shift has ever taken place. Cabinet officials, appointees to high office, party leaders and industrialists now await their turn in his ante-room. Harry Hopkins, Frank Murphy—even the driving Tommy Corcoran—have gone there hat in hand. The word has spread around that "Garner is the man to see."

PETTENGILL President holds a veto power over the President of the United States. That is a strong statement but it is not too strong. For legislation favored by the President but opposed by the Vice President has today about the same chance in the Senate as a snowball in a frying pan.

Few men, who ever occupied seats on Capitol Hill, have the present importance of Jack Garner. Mention Thaddeus Stevens of reconstruction days and two or three Speakers of the House since then—men like Reed of Maine or Cannon of Illinois—and you have about exhausted the list. But such men and other Speakers and voting members of the House or Senate wielded power that the office gave them.

For example, in the time of "Czar" Reed and Uncle Joe Cannon, the Speaker had the power—and exercised it—to name every House committeemen as well as the Chairmen. No member of the House could get anything through or win promotion for himself if the Speaker opposed him. If the Speaker gave the word, he was deprived of his committee membership. In addition, the Speaker could vote not only to break a tie, but upon all questions and by virtue of his office he was the Chairman of the powerful Rules Committee, which gave stop-and-go signs to all bills.

Contrast this power and "insolence of office" with the humbler post of Vice President. Constitutionally the Vice President is the "poor relation" of the Federal government. Constitutionally, he has less power than the newest member of the lower House who at least can pass a vote on every question. As presiding officer of the Senate, the Vice President votes only to break a tie and need not do that. He belongs to no Committee. He has no vote in the organization of the Senate or in his party caucus. He has no patronage, no jobs, no machine.

Aside from voting to break a tie once in a coon's age, his constitutional power is limited. Presiding over the Senate, he interprets rules which were made for him and which he has no power to change.

If he likes the ladies and pageantry of office, the Vice President may dine out in his best bib and tucker every night in the week. But Jack Garner doesn't like even that. When the clock strikes nine, he hits the hay.

And yet despite all this, John Garner today is the second most powerful figure in Washington. That power is not limited to the Senate. He was a member of the House of Representatives for a quarter of a century and one of the most popular Speakers who ever broke a gavel.

Practically every important member of the present House served with and under him. Sam Rayburn of Texas, Majority Leader of the House was Garner's campaign manager for the Presidential nomination in 1932. Texas Congressmen comprise the largest Democratic delegation in the House and have among them six or seven chairmanships of House Committees. And, as Woodrow Wilson once wrote "ours is a government by the Chairman of Congressional Committees".

Hatton Summers of the Judiciary Committee who gave the death blow to the court packing bill is from Texas. So is Martin Dies of the Rules Committee and Chairman of the House Committee to Investigate un-American Activities. So is Senator Shepard of the Senate Elections Committee which recently turned in a blistering report on the politics in W.P.A. There is Marvin Jones of Agriculture, Mansfield of Rivers and Harbors, and four or five other important chairmen. Downtown at the R. F. C. Jesse Jones of Texas, runs the world's biggest bank and runs it well.

So, if you are smart in Washington, don't tread on Texas. The Lone Star State came into the Union by treaty as a sovereign power, a distinction no other State enjoys and of which all Texans are proud. And they are proud of Cactus Jack also—and they have a right to be.

But admitting his present importance, as one must who knows Washington, the next question is how did he climb to power? Reader, I hate to leave you in suspense, but that must wait for another column.

JERSEY SOLON SEEKS OUSTER OF LABOR CHIEF

Rep. Thomas To Take Action
On House Floor Despite
Strong Pressure

MISS PERKINS ASSAILED

Failure To Deport Harry
Bridges Blamed For
Impeachment Plea

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Refusing to yield to strong pressure to abandon his plan, Rep. J. Parnell Thomas (R) of New Jersey, said he will rise in the house today and seek the impeachment of Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins.

Clothing the nature of his indictment of the first woman cabinet officer in secrecy, Thomas indicated to friends that he will charge Miss Perkins with failure to enforce the immigration and deportation laws.

Thomas, it was learned, has been asked by leading Democrats and Republicans in the house to abandon his move against Miss Perkins. Confident that the evidence justifies his course, he proposed that the charges he will prefer against Miss Perkins be referred to the house judiciary committee for complete investigation.

Meantime friends of Miss Perkins rallied to her defense. There were two courses open—to move to table the impeachment resolution or allow it to go to the judiciary committee. If the first move is made, there will be an immediate showdown.

Action Defended

Miss Perkins defended her actions against charges made by the Dies anti-American activities investigating committee, in a letter to Mrs. Mary T. Norton (D) of New Jersey, chairman of the house labor committee. She specifically defended her action in suspending deportation proceedings against Harry Bridges, West Coast C.I.O. maritime leader, to await a supreme court decision in another case. She also defended her failure to deport Joseph Kolwaski, who once had been deported to Russia because of Communist activities. She said both Poland and Russia refused to honor his passport.

Chairman Dies (D) of Texas, disclaiming any connection with the Thomas impeachment move and his committee's report, challenged Miss Perkins' statement that Russia will not accept Kolwaski. Thomas is a member of the Dies committee.

"Kolwaski was deported once to Russia because of Communist activities in this country," said Dies. "They placed him in charge of a prison in Russia and he became a member of the secret police. If they won't take him back, we ought to break off diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia. It is strange if they don't take back a man they once honored. Do they want to keep him in America?"

"With regard to denials that Harry Bridges is a Communist, there are in Miss Perkins' file many depositions by witnesses who swore under oath that he was a Communist, that they saw him pay dues."

"Does not the law require the secretary of labor to insist on a minimum bond of $500 when an alien is released in a deportation proceeding?"

Dies asserted that Bridges was released on his own recognizance.

Hatchery Men Prepare For Their Spring Work

By S. D. Fridley
Phone Ashville, 79

Ran across a fine lot of baby chicks, some ten days old, and Easter coming this year beyond March, April 9, these chicks will be just right broilers by then. And more evidence of Spring, the incubator boys who hatch chicks by the thousands are cleaning up their machines, placing select eggs where best results may be had—Walter Hedges said he is getting his ten thousand egg machine ready now and may place eggs in it yet this week.

Ashville—John Wilson, the Crites cannery field man who contracts acreage for both peas and sweet corn, told us that he has already some few contracts and will be after getting more before so long now. The seeding of peas is some six weeks away yet and there is plenty of time for the getting ready. Just what the acreage will be for this year, has not been decided on yet.

Ashville—John Clenden, over Williamsport way, was here Monday and in conversation with him he asked us if we remembered what brand of weather we had just three years ago the 22nd of this month? And when we told him that we could not recall it, told us it was exactly 22 degrees below zero. A lot of snow and in drifts, he said. George Peters, one of the reliable at headquarters, said that he quite well remembered it because he didn't get much else done but shovel coal in the furnace and keep the water pipes from freezing.

Ashville—The county library truck was here Monday and did its usual good business. More readers in the long winter evenings than in the busy Summer time, those in charge, told us.

Ashville—G. A. Hook and family attended the funeral of their aunt, Mrs. Amelia Brehm, at Chillicothe. Mrs. Sim Childers of Indianapolis is here visiting at the home of her parents, John and Mrs. Cloud. Rev. Boyd Rife of the Washington avenue United Brethren church of Columbus was a visitor in Ashville Monday.

Ashville—Out "on the rounds" yesterday to see what, if anything was stirring in the news line. Tough day for news for "nobody knew nothing"—paging the English kiddies. No big questions seemed to be before The Court except the rural carrier appointment and that's got down to a whisper and that not very loud.

Ashville—According to County game warden Francis near 400 extra rabbits have been brought into and released in different parts of the county for propagating purposes. And by a true story handed out at headquarters a few days ago, Cecil Noecker is overstocked with this sort of wild game now without taking on any additional. A big ruckus of some sort was going on down cellar way a few days ago at the Noecker home according to Cecil. An easy and quiet peep down below sighted some less than a dozen bunnies having a hot-tilt game of football, soccerball or something of the sort for the apples, potatoes and turnips were a flying every which way and scoring a hit most every time. Cecil thinks it was one of those "hilarious parties" like people have sometimes, because the lid was off the sauerkraut jar and the juice all gone.

PETTENGILL

"The Gentleman from Indiana"

GARNER OF TEXAS

As matters stand today and promise to continue for some months at least, John Nance Garner of Uvalde, Texas, is the most powerful Vice President in American history.

Nothing like the present shift has ever taken place. Cabinet officials, appointees to high office, party leaders and industrialists now await their turn in his ante-room. Harry Hopkins, Frank Murphy—even the driving Tommy Corcoran—have gone there hat in hand. The word has spread around that "Garner is the man to see."

It is scarcely too much to say that the Vice President holds a veto power over the President of the United States. That is a strong statement but it is not too strong. For legislation favored by the President but opposed by the Vice President has today about the same chance in the Senate as a snowball in a frying pan.

Few men, who ever occupied seats on Capitol Hill, have the present importance of Jack Garner. Mention Thaddeus Stevens of reconstruction days and two or three Speakers of the House since then—men like Reed of Maine or Cannon of Illinois—and you have about exhausted the list. But such men and other Speakers and voting members of the House or Senate wielded power that the office gave them.

For example, in the time of "Czar" Reed and Uncle Joe Cannon, the Speaker had the power—and exercised it—to name every House committee as well as the Chairmen. No member of the House could get anything through or win promotion for himself if the Speaker opposed him. If the Speaker gave the word, he was deprived of his committee membership. In addition, the Speaker could vote not only to break a tie, but upon all questions and by virtue of his office he was the Chairman of the powerful Rules Committee, which gave stop-and-go signs to all bills.

Contrast this power and "insolence of office" with the humbler post of Vice President. Constitutionally the Vice President is the "poor relation" of the Federal government. Constitutionally, he has less power than the newest member of the lower House who at least can pass a vote on every question. As presiding officer of the Senate, the Vice President votes only to break a tie and need not do that. He belongs to no Committee. He has no vote in the organization of the Senate or in his party caucus. He has no patronage, no jobs, no machine.

Aside from voting to break a tie once in a coon's age, his constitutional power is limited. Presiding over the Senate, he interposes rules which were made for him and which he has no power to change.

If he likes the ladies and pageantry of office, the Vice President may dine out in his best bib and tucker every night in the week. But Jack Garner doesn't like even that. When the clock strikes nine, he hits the hay.

And yet despite all this, John Garner today is the second most powerful figure in Washington. That power is not limited to the Senate. He was a member of the House of Representatives for a quarter of a century and one of the most popular Speakers who ever broke a gavel.

Practically every important member of the present House served with and under him. Sam Rayburn of Texas, Majority Leader of the House was Garner's campaign manager for the Presidential nomination in 1932. Texas Congressmen comprise the largest Democratic delegation in the House and have among them six or seven chairmanships of House Committees. And, as Woodrow Wilson once wrote "ours is a government by the Chairman of Congressional Committees."

Hatton Sumners of the Judiciary Committee who gave the death blow to the court packing bill is from Texas. So is Martin Dies of the Rules Committee and Chairman of the House Committee to Investigate un-American Activities. So is Senator Shepard of the Senate Elections Committee which recently turned in a blistering report on the politics in W.P.A. There is Marvin Jones of Agriculture, Mansfield of Rivers and Harbors, and four or five other important chairmen, Downtown at the R. F. C. Jesse Jones of Texas, runs the world's biggest bank and runs it well. So, if you are smart in Washington, don't tread on Texas. The Lone Star State came into the Union by treaty as a sovereign power, a distinction no other State enjoys and of which all Texans are proud. And they are proud of Cactus Jack also—and they have a right to be.

But admitting his present importance, as one must who knows Washington, the next question is how did he climb to power? Reader, I hate to leave you in suspense, but that must wait for another column.

MUSICAL BOOM

PIANO makers are feeling cheerful lately. Their business is picking up more than most lines. They sold more instruments in the last quarter of 1938 than in any similar period since 1929, and more in December than in any other month of those nine years. Moreover, unfilled orders at the beginning of this year were one-third more than a year ago.

This is not really a boom, compared with pre-depression standards, but it is so much better than expectation that it seems like one. There is said to be a good sale, too, for small organs now, both the little, old-fashioned ones operated by foot-pumping and the marvelous new electric organs that occupy little space but will almost do the work of a pipe organ. Other instruments are doing well, too.

Really, we're coming to be a very musical nation. The progress made in musical taste and enjoyment is incredible; we have gained in 15 years more than we did in the previous hundred. We now have the best music in the world, and the most of it. The best musical artists, conductors and composers live here or come here, and our production and consumption of music is perhaps, like our steel and grain and cotton and motor cars, more than that of all the rest of the world.

JOB FOR THE DUKE

THE rugged individualists, or maybe they were rugged royalists, who organized the dinner in New York to fix up a job for the Duke of Windsor, meant well, anyway. "Friends of the Duke of Windsor in America" they call themselves. It has been clear for some time that the Duke needs friends, and perhaps he also needs a job. An active man can't go along forever just playing golf and croquet and reading the papers and talking to his wife.

In all seriousness, Edward would probably like to work regularly for international peace, which is the sort of job the ladies engaged in this enterprise have in mind for him. And he might be very good at it. He has not been known particularly as a skillful negotiator, but first gained a reputation as "salesman for the British Empire." He might do as well as anybody in selling peace and good will just now, when that commodity is needed more than anything else in the world. His wife, too, would be an able assistant.

If Edward is to have any such job, though, he would rather get it from his own country. He would probably succeed better at it, too, if he were working for Britain rather than America.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . Hour by Hour

PAGES from the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up with what I thought was the age, but soon learned was nothing more than cold, for I had forgotten to pull up the extra cover and during the night a really chilly wind had blown. At the breakfast table did resume chatting with Bill Ammon, the house guest. Strange how much old friends have to talk about when they have not met in a year or more.

Bill and I roamed the Montana hills once more, did a little ranching, a lot of newspaper work, shot ducks and geese and grouse, brought down a few antelopes, elk, killed off marauding coyotes and bobcats, laughed about the Californian who came to us in the Summer and intended getting away before cold weather, but was caught during early November in 46 below weather.

Yes, Bill and the scrivener have known each other for many years and have remained close friends through it all. Probably because we tell each other the truth. I know his shortcomings, he knows mine. We tell each other about them and promise to do something about them, but seldom do. Bill's name isn't Bill at all. It is Francis Marion, but he is six feet and three inches tall, weighs 220 pounds. Francis doesn't fit him at all. Bill does. So, everyone calls him Bill.

Received a card from Milt Friedman who is sojourning in Florida. Milt had been sick for several weeks before departing. Writes that he is beginning to feel like himself once more. Attended the Retail Merchants Association meeting at noon and was impressed by nothing so much as the brilliance of the Christmas socks worn by Herman Hill.

Out and about the ville, meeting Bill Murray and learning that he is recovering from rheumatism. Always do I know when Bill is feeling fairly fit. He tells me he can lick me. And, darned if I don't think that older could do it, too. Dropped in at the Coffee Club and helped initiate Ray Davis, the barrister. Initiation consists of nothing more—but generally it is plenty—than old-fashioned razzing. Ray took it gracefully and now is a member in good standing.

There goes Guy Pettit and here comes George Roth. Bowed in fine friendliness to Wallace Crist and then utterly ignored Harry Hill who shouted across the street and asked how I like this for fishing weather? Jim Stout and Carl Mason dropped into the office and we played with a mechanical cigarette container and ash tray, just delivered by mail from Kroger Babb in Chicago. Jim ordered one right away for his desk. The only drawback to the thing is the number of cigarettes required to demonstrate how it works.

A quick trip to Columbus in the early evening and then home to tune in on the State-Michigan basketball game. With an attendance of practically 10,000, it appears that the court game in Ohio may be on its way to catching up with basketball popularity in our neighboring state of Indiana. State has a grand team this year, one that is making a strong bid for Conference championship. And I hope that wish is fulfilled.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN.

FILES REVEAL PAYMENTS

WASHINGTON — A lot of dynamite is hidden in the now smouldering McKesson-Robbins scandal. One un-revealed explosive is the fact that Archibald McNeil, former Democratic National Committeeman from Connecticut and close friend of ex-Attorney General Homer Cummings, received regular payments from F. Donald Coster-Musica totaling thousands of dollars.

The payments were made at regular intervals from 1934 to December, 1936, when the scandal broke. The items ran as high as $5,000 and as low as $416.

McNeil and the dead swindler were in intimate terms, addressing each other as "Don" and "Arch". Coster-Musica sent gifts of liquor to McNeil for distribution to political friends and suggested names for appointment to public office.

The McKesson-Robbins correspondence frequently mentions the name of Cummings. One letter from "Coster" to a friend follows:

"I am glad that the Attorney General and Mrs. Cummings are enjoying a vacation with you. I would send some 'bubbles' for the occasion, if I did not feel that you would drink it all and give the General nothing, so I will await his return to Washington.

"I know of nothing that you can bring to the attention of the General at this time except a prayer that he take the advice of sound, honest business men, that really have at heart the success of the Administration, feeling that unless the Administration succeeds, business will not succeed. It seems to me that this Administration has some of the best men of the United States in the Senate, without taking recourse to the crack-pot college professors, Socialists and Communists that he is giving aid and comfort to, and that if he would take counsel with some of the experienced business men, whose record of successful accomplishment is open to him we could go a long ways toward bringing this country back to prosperity . . . I hope before the General leaves that I can get you an advance copy of my annual report, which sums up the subjects of taxation and labor relations, and clearly sets forth what business is up against."

In still another letter Coster-Musica complains to a politico that he is losing faith in the "ability of the Democratic party to deliver."

"It seems that their idea of delivery is by way of talk or attractive dinners attended by attractive personalities that can do more talking than performing, all of which may be perfectly fine and most interesting to some people, but it does not interest me a bit . . . So it seems to me that we had better adopt the policy of performance first and payment after, rather than vice versa in the future."

They say brains do grow, after maturity is reached, because so many men have to wear bigger hats. But maybe that's just fat inside the skull.

There wouldn't be any dictators if there weren't so many people who want to take dictation.

LAFF-A-DAY

DIET AND HEALTH

Hospital Treatment Best to Cut Weight

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

REDUCTION of overweight is best accomplished in a hospital where the diet can be carefully supervised. Some doctors of my acquaintance who have a large practice among overweight people will not attempt to treat them unless they enter a hospital. This is a difficult imposition and most people would rather remain the way they are or try to accomplish something by home treatment.

The trouble with home treatment for overweight is partly the doctor's fault and partly the patient's. The patients are constantly tempted and break over. Where the doctor errs is in trying to carry out as strict a diet in the home as he would in the hospital.

A simple plan that works for the home reduction of overweight is that practiced by two St. Louis doctors. They do not try to force the patient to calculate a complicated system of diet, but they make their instructions very simple, as follows: The total caloric daily intake is about 1350 calories, divided into 350 calories at breakfast, 400 for luncheon and 600 for dinner. These are approximate estimations and no attempt is made at exactness.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Instructions
The patient is instructed thus: "For breakfast you can have a small orange or a half a grapefruit, or, in fact, any kind of fruit, two pieces of dry toast, and a cup of coffee with skimmed milk. "For luncheon you can have an egg or a lean meat sandwich, lettuce, cole slaw or radishes or celery, and a cup of tea or coffee.

"For dinner have an ordinary helping of anything that is served for dinner: for instance, a piece of meat the size of an ordinary lamb chop; two slices of bread, a vegetable, a small piece of pie or jelly, and a cup of tea or coffee. "Fats, such as butter, cream, ice cream, and fat on meat, and gravies are forbidden. Vinegar, salt and pepper may be used. Mineral oil should be used instead of olive oil in salad dressings. Water may be taken as desired but beer, wine and soft drinks are prohibited."

Does the Job

This seems simple enough and easy for anyone to follow. Simple as it is, the method removed more than a ton, 2333 pounds of fat, from 76 women in four and a half months.

There was some additional treatment with extracts of the ductless glands and three types of obesity were recognized.

In overweight due to lowered function of the pituitary gland, the fat is distributed in the middle of the body especially. The abdomen and chest carry most of it, the extremities are tapering and the hands and feet small and slender.

In overweight due to lowered function of the thyroid gland, the fat is generally distributed all over the body—legs, arms, hands, feet and neck all sharing.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks Reducing Diet," "Digestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

South 3-Diamonds and North 3-No trump. After East's pass, South called 4-Diamonds, making it clear from the rebid that the suit was of at least five cards, also letting North know that the clubs were a card longer because they had been named first.

On the unsound reasoning that the club suit must be better because it was shown before the diamonds, North went from 4-Diamonds to 5-Clubs. West led the spade 8 in answer to his partner's bid. When the play was over North got a lesson from his partner, who made an overtrick because a heart was discarded from the dummy on the diamonds. South showed him that, with diamonds as trumps, two hearts could have been discarded on the clubs because the suit was more unbalanced than the diamonds.

Tomorrow's Problem
♠ J 9 7 2
♥ A 2
♦ A 10 7
♣ A J 6 4

(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)
Here was a case in which North had his choice between having his partner play with a nine-card trump suit divided on a basis of five cards in one hand and four in the other, and having nine trumps divided on a basis of six and three. North made the wrong choice, though his partner clearly disclosed his distribution.

East opened the bidding with 1-Spade, South overcalled with 2-Clubs. West passed, North made a bad pass when he should have bid 2-No trump. East bid 2-Spades.

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)
With the spade 2 led against his 2-No trump contract, which was doubled by West, what card should North play from dummy on the first trick, and why?

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE

JEFFREY HAD barely disappeared from sight when the tireless Karns brought in Count Orsini. At his entrance I sat up and took notice. There were a great many things, in my opinion, for which Daphne's erstwhile fiancé must answer.

"You wished to see me, no?" He advanced stiffly and clicked his heels in approved military fashion. He was really a vision with his monocle screwed into one eye and his spottless white spats protruding from the neat cuffs of his dark trousers. Little Ludwig certainly knew his onions when it came to valeting!

"I did," replied the chief, doubtfully eyeing the monocle. "Be seated, please."

"Thank you." The count seated himself, smoothing the creases of his trousers with practiced nicety. "I may smoke, no?"

"Yes," Ellis frowned. Evidently his fondness, if any, for visiting royalty, was undergoing a rapid decline.

"Thank you," repeated the count, and, seemingly unaware of hostility, he drew from an inner pocket a cigarette holder of pale jade and ivory. Into this he fitted a gold-tipped and monogrammed cigarette.

When all had been arranged to his satisfaction, he puffed daintily, sending thin clouds of perfumed smoke swirling through the air.

"With your permission!" And there was Mac, bowing to the manner born, as he fished from his pocket a fat, black cigar. I choked back my laughter at the count's expression of horrified amazement.

"Now we can talk," the detective continued, puffing, not at all daintily. "There are several things not clear to me—"

"No?" Orsini's amazement increased.

"No. For instance, I can't get it through my head how you happen to be here at the Manor."

"But ees so seemp! I come for the engagement to be announced!"

"Oh, yes; I had forgotten! I suppose, under the circumstances, the engagement must be postponed?"

"But naturally!" The count's tone rebuked him. "We shall wait a reasonable time."

"Too bad," Mac pulled a long face. "Almost looks as if someone didn't want the engagement to be announced, doesn't it?"

"You think so?" He frowned darkly. "I haf wondered—I haf een thees house enemies!"

"Jeffrey Todington, for example," Mac rambled on contemptuously. "You might say he isn't so keen to have his girl marry you."

"Zut! That one!" The count's tone rebuked him. "We shall wait a reasonable time."

The count uttered an impolite word. "So? You hear lies about me, eh? Bah! What does a young, innocent girl know of such things?"

She weel come to love me; I teach her love!"

"I have heard rumors of the engagement being called off altogether—"

"Eet ees not true!" The count was working himself into a fearful lather. "She weel marry me. I see to eet!"

Mac regarded him quizzically. "In America our girls do not marry unless they choose to do so. Since Mrs. Witherspoon is no longer alive—"

"Eet ees a contract of honor!" insisted the other, his face turning purple.

"Well, we'll see about that. Now another thing—"

"Another?"

"Oh, we're just getting started," Mac informed him soberly. "Relax. Bad for the blood pressure, getting so steamed up."

"I relax?"

"Good!" I want to know where you met Miss Witherspoon, and when?"

"Eet was in France—the Riviera. The time—eet ees last winter."

"France, eh? And you proposed to her there?"

"Yes?" Mac was interested. "Peculiar custom. Mrs. Witherspoon approved?"

"But certainly! I haf the title; I haf the family—"

"And she had the money," concluded Mac dryly.

Orsini shrugged. "We make the fair exchange."

"I daresay it's all according to the way you look at it." Mac flipped some cigar ashes into the fireplace. "Over here we believe in marrying for love."

"So?" The count permitted himself a faint smile. "A funny custom, as you say No?"

"Did Mr. Horace consent to the match?"

"The papa? I theenk so. He ees a good son; he agrees with the madame."

"By the way"—abruptly Mac shifted his point of inquiry—"did you ever meet any of this bunch, the guests, I mean, before this week?"

"No. All are strangers."

"Hum-m-m—m—you came directly from Paris?"

"Direct. I arrive las week on the Franconia."

"You and Ludwig?"

"Ludwig?" The count's monocle dropped to his waistcoat. "My valet?"

"Uh-huh."

"But, of course! Always he travels with me."

"Nice little chap?"

"Nice?" I could see that Count Orsini was becoming more and more convinced of American insanity. Fancy anyone thinking a valet a "nice little" fellow! It was all he could do to restrain himself.

"Thinks the world of you, too,"

Mac went on. "Says you're so kind and generous."

"Generous?" The count's expression was that of incredulity.

"Uh-huh. Showed me a pair of shoes you gave him. Good shoes—hardly worn. Just goes to prove what he said about your generosity."

"Ah, the shoes!" The count's eyebrows twitched erratically. He said hastily: "They were too small!"

"And they squeaked," added Mac gravely. "Perhaps you noticed?"

"No! I notice nothing."

"Any questions, Ellis?"

"Chief Ellis stared at him. "No!"

"Very well. That's all, count."

"All?"

"Yes."

"I may go?"

"You may."

"Er—thank you." Again the count clicked his heels and withdrew.

Mac chuckled. "Got him worried, eh? He was all set for the rubber shoe. Well, let him stew for a while; stewing is good for a guilty conscience."

"But why?" I demanded, "did the count want that tissue? Unless he committed the crime, and he didn't have any reason to."

"Time will tell, Elsie," Mac replied, and I bent low over my notebook before I should encounter the infuriating grin that he seemed to reserve especially for me.

"See here, McIntyre!" Ellis was plainly losing patience. "How many times must I tell you to keep quiet? What is all this about shoes and tissues? I've a right to know."

Mac smiled. He shook his head. "As long as I'm working alone, chief, my information is my own."

"And what about my information? You're taking all that in, aren't you?"

"Right! And I'm not meaning to hold out on you, Ellis. When the time is right, I'll tell you everything and anything."

It was along about four in the afternoon by this time, and I was getting tired and cross and sleepy. It did not seem to me that we were getting to any place—and another night was approaching. And there was a killer loose somewhere in the house! A killer who had struck once, perhaps twice, and who would not hesitate to strike again! The prospect was not pleasant. The thought of darkness gave me the jitters.

"Cainap, baby?" Phil stole over beside me. I jumped three feet.

I bestowed upon him a freezing, fleeting glance. "How much longer is this side-show going to last?"

"Not long, kid." He took my hand in his. "Cheer up! Think of the stories you'll have to tell your grandchildren!"

"If I live to have grandchildren!" I retorted, jerking away from him. I was not in the mood for railery; I was not in the mood for anything unless it were a good hard cry.

"All right, honey." He moved away. "Go ahead and have yourself a good mad; you'll feel better."

MUSICAL BOOM

PIANO makers are feeling cheerful lately. Their business is picking up more than most lines. They sold more instruments in the last quarter of 1938 than in any similar period since 1929, and more in December than in any other month of those nine years. Moreover, unfilled orders at the beginning of this year were one-third more than a year ago.

This is not really a boom, compared with pre-depression standards, but it is so much better than expectation that it seems like one. There is said to be a good sale, too, for small organs now, both the little, old-fashioned ones operated by foot-pumping and the marvelous new electric organs that occupy little space but will almost do the work of a pipe organ. Other instruments are doing well, too.

Really, we're coming to be a very musical nation. The progress made in musical taste and enjoyment is incredible; we have gained in 15 years more than we did in the previous hundred. We now have the best music in the world, and the most of it. The best musical artists, conductors and composers live here or come here, and our production and consumption of music is perhaps, like our steel and grain and cotton and motor cars, more than that of all the rest of the world.

JOB FOR THE DUKE

THE rugged individualists, or maybe they were rugged royalists, who organized the dinner in New York to fix up a job for the Duke of Windsor, meant well, anyway. "Friends of the Duke of Windsor in America" they call themselves. It has been clear for some time that the Duke needs friends, and perhaps he also needs a job. An active man can't go along forever just playing golf and croquet and reading the papers and talking to his wife.

In all seriousness, Edward would probably like to work regularly for international peace, which is the sort of job the ladies engaged in this enterprise have in mind for him. And he might be very good at it. He has not been known particularly as a skillful negotiator, but first gained a reputation as "salesman for the British Empire." He might do as well as anybody in selling peace and good will just now, when that commodity is needed more than anything else in the world. His wife, too, would be an able assistant.

If Edward is to have any such job, though, he would rather get it from his own country. He would probably succeed better at it, too, if he were working for Britain rather than America.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . Hour by Hour

PAGES from the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up with what I thought was the age, but soon learned was nothing more than cold, for I had forgotten to pull up the extra cover and during the night a really chilly wind had blown. At the breakfast table did resume chatting with Bill Ammon, the house guest. Strange how much old friends have to talk about when they have not met in a year or more.

Bill and I roamed the Montana hills once more, did a little ranching, a lot of newspaper work, shot ducks and geese and grouse, brought down a few antelopes, elk, killed off marauding coyotes and bobcats, laughed about the Californian who came to us in the Summer and intended getting away before cold weather, but was caught during early November in 46 below weather.

Yes, Bill and the scrivener have known each other for many years and have remained close friends through it all. Probably because we tell each other the truth. I know his shortcomings, he knows mine. We tell each other about them and promise to do something about them, but seldom do. Bill's name isn't Bill at all. It is Francis Marion, but he is six feet and three inches tall, weighs 220 pounds. Francis doesn't fit him at all. Bill does. So, everyone calls him Bill.

Received a card from Milt Friedman who is sojourning in Florida. Milt had been sick for several weeks before departing. Writes that he is beginning to feel like himself once more. Attended the Retail Merchants Association meeting at noon and was impressed by nothing so much as the brilliance of the Christmas socks worn by Herman Hill.

Out and about the ville, meeting Bill Murray and learning that he is recovering from rheumatism. Always do I know when Bill is feeling fairly fit. He tells me he can lick me. And, darned if I don't think that older could do it, too. Dropped in at the Coffee Club and helped initiate Ray Davis, the barrister. Initiation consists of nothing more—but generally it is plenty—than old-fashioned razzing. Ray took it gracefully and now is a member in good standing.

There goes Guy Pettit and here comes George Roth. Bowed in fine friendliness to Wallace Crist and then utterly ignored Harry Hill who shouted across the street and asked how I like this for fishing weather? Jim Stout and Carl Mason dropped into the office and we played with a mechanical cigarette container and ash tray, just delivered by mail from Kroger Babb in Chicago. Jim ordered one right away for his desk. The only drawback to the thing is the number of cigarettes required to demonstrate how it works.

A quick trip to Columbus in the early evening and then home to tune in on the State-Michigan basketball game. With an attendance of practically 10,000, it appears that the court game in Ohio may be on its way to catching up in basketball popularity in our neighboring state of Indiana. State has a grand team this year, one that is making a strong bid for Conference championship. And I hope that wish is fulfilled.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

FILES REVEAL PAYMENTS

WASHINGTON — A lot of dynamite is hidden in the now smoldering McKesson-Robbins scandal. One unrevealed explosive is the fact that Archibald McNeil, former Democratic National Committeeman from Connecticut and close friend of ex-Attorney General Homer Cummings, received regular payments from F. Donald Coster-Musica totaling thousands of dollars.

The payments were made at regular intervals from 1934 to December, 1936, when the scandal broke. The items ran as high as $5,000 and as low as $416.

McNeil and the dead swindler were in intimate terms, addressing each other as "Don" and "Arch". Coster-Musica sent gifts of liquor to McNeil for distribution to political friends and suggested names for appointment to public office.

The McKesson-Robbins correspondence frequently mentions the name of Cummings. One letter from "Coster" to a friend follows:

"I am glad that the Attorney General and Mrs. Cummings are enjoying a vacation with you. I would send some 'bubbles' for the occasion, if I did not feel that you would drink it all and give the General nothing, so I will await his return to Washington.

"I know of nothing that you can bring to the attention of the General at this time except a prayer that he take the advice of sound, honest business men, that really have at heart the success of the Administration, feeling that unless the Administration succeeds, business will not succeed. It seems to me that this Administration has some of the best men of the United States in the Senate, without taking recourse to the crack-pot college professors, Socialists and Communists that he is giving aid and comfort to, and that if he would take counsel with some of the experienced business men, whose record of successful accomplishment is open to him we could go a long way toward bringing this country back to prosperity. . . I hope before the General leaves that I can get you an advance copy of my annual report, which sums up the subjects of taxation and labor relations, and clearly sets forth what business is up against."

In still another letter Coster-Musica complains to a politico that he is losing faith in the "ability of the Democratic party to deliver."

"It seems that their idea of delivery is by way of talk or attractive dinners attended by attractive personalities that can do more talking than performing, all of which may be perfectly fine and most interesting to some people, but it does not interest me a bit. . . So it seems to me that we had better adopt the policy of performance first and payment after, rather than vice versa in the future."

They say brains do grow, after maturity is reached, because so many men have to wear bigger hats. But maybe that's just fat inside the skull.

There wouldn't be any dictators if there weren't so many people who want to take dictation.

LAFF-A-DAY

DIET AND HEALTH

Hospital Treatment Best to Cut Weight

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

REDUCTION of overweight is best accomplished in a hospital where the diet can be carefully supervised. Some doctors of my acquaintance who have a large practice among overweight people will not attempt to treat them unless they enter a hospital. This is a difficult proposition and most people would rather remain the way they are or try to accomplish something by home treatment.

The trouble with home treatment for overweight is partly the doctor's fault and partly the patient's. The patients are constantly tempted and break over. Where the doctor errs is in trying to carry out as strict a diet in the home as he would in the hospital.

A simple plan that works for the home reduction of overweight is that practiced by two St. Louis doctors. They do not try to force the patient to calculate a complicated system of diet, but they make their instructions very simple, as follows: The total calorie daily intake is about 1850 calories, divided into 350 calories at breakfast, 400 for luncheon and 600 for dinner. These are approximate estimations and no attempt is made at exactness.

Instructions
The patient is instructed thus:
"For breakfast you can have a small orange or a half a grapefruit, or, in fact, any kind of fruit, two pieces of dry toast, and a cup of coffee with skimmed milk.
"For luncheon you can have an egg or a lean meat sandwich, lettuce, cole slaw or radishes or celery, and a cup of tea or coffee.

"For dinner have an ordinary helping of anything that is served for dinner: for instance, a piece of meat the size of an ordinary lamb chop; two slices of bread, a vegetable, a small piece of pie or jelly, and a cup of tea or coffee.
"Fats, such as butter, cream, ice cream, and fat on meat, and gravies are forbidden. Vinegar, salt and pepper may be used. Mineral oil should be used instead of olive oil in salad dressings. Water may be taken as desired but beer, wine and soft drinks are prohibited."

Does the Job
This seems simple enough and easy for anyone to follow. Simple as it is, the method removed more than a ton, 2333 pounds of fat, from 76 women in four and a half months. There was some additional treatment with extracts of the ductless glands and three types of obesity were recognized.
In overweight due to lowered function of the pituitary gland, the fat is distributed in the middle of the body especially. The abdomen and chest carry most of it, the extremities are tapering and the hands and feet small and slender.
In overweight due to lowered function of the thyroid gland, the fat is generally distributed all over the body—legs, arms, hands, feet and neck all sharing.

WHEN YOU HAVE a safe fit for either of two suits bid by your partner, it is usually better to favor the one which is more evenly divided between the two hands. Besides contributing more pliability to the problem, enabling your partner the better choice between a cross-ruffing and a suit-establishing procedure, you give him an opportunity to obtain more discards of losers if the unbalanced suit is on the side.

North made the wrong choice, though his partner clearly disclosed his distribution.

East opened the bidding with 1-Spade, South overcalled with 2-Clubs. West passed, North made a bad pass when he should have bid 2-No trump. East bid 2-Spades.

On the unsound reasoning that the club suit would be better because it was shown before the diamonds, North went from 4-Diamonds to 5-Clubs. West led the spade 8 in answer to his partner's bid. When the play was over North got a lesson from his partner, who made an overtrick because a heart was discarded from the dummy on the diamonds. South showed him that, with diamonds as trumps, two hearts could have been discarded on the clubs because the suit was more unbalanced than the diamonds.

Mac smiled. He shook his head.

"As long as I'm working alone, chief, my information is my own."

"And what about my information? You're taking all that in, aren't you?"

"Right! And I'm not meaning to hold out on you, Ellis. When the time is right, I'll tell you everything and anything."

It was along about four in the afternoon by this time, and I was getting tired and cross and sleepy. It did not seem to me that we were getting to any place—and another night was approaching. And there was a killer loose somewhere in the house! A killer who had struck once, perhaps twice, and who would not hesitate to strike again! The prospect was not pleasant. The thought of darkness gave me the jitters.

"C'mon, baby?" Phil stole over beside me. I jumped three feet.

I bestowed upon him a freezing, fleeting glance. "How much longer is this side-show going to last?"

"Not long, kid." He took my hand in his. "Cheer up! Think of the stories you'll have to tell your grandchildren!"

"If I live to have grandchildren!" I retorted, jerking away from him. I was not in the mood for rillery. I was not in the mood for anything unless it were a good hard cry.

"All right, honey." He moved away. "Go ahead and have yourself a good mad; you'll feel better."

The sure route to Jobs!

Let's lift up our eyes from the short range view of America.

All of us have been living through difficult times, but anyone who knows the spirit that built America knows that these times must pass.

And just as transportation originally built America, so railroads, as the nation's basic transportation system today, must be ready to carry the banner of future advance.

As all experience shows, a railroad is never finished. To keep its service abreast of the times—to step up its schedules with safety—to keep the cost of transportation low—it needs continuously to replace the old with the new.

What that can mean in jobs and purchases will be seen by such a modest estimate as this:

To replace 5% of the freight cars in service would call for 88,326 new freight cars every year, and to build one freight car provides 1,987 man-hours of work.

To replace 5% of all locomotives in service would call for 2,234 locomotives—each providing work for 50 men for one year.

To continue the work of reducing grades, straightening curves, building stronger track, installing safety signals, and the like, at the same rate as in the years from 1926 to 1936, would call for somewhat more than $300,000,000 a year.

Here is a rebuilding program which would set axes ringing in the forests and coal and ore rolling from the mines, which would keep men busy in the ruddy glow of the steel mills—a program which would help farmers, labor, shippers, and be a real contribution to national defense.

The American railroads are ready to press forward with this program, if they can get the means—with the same spirit that has brought such tremendous strides in the past, and now provides the finest transportation in the world.

MATHEMATICAL WIZARD

Professor S. I. Krieger, mathematical wizard, who holds a letter from Albert Einstein terming him one of the great mathematical minds of today, will race an adding machine on Dave Elman's "Hobby Lobby" Wednesday, Jan. 25, at 8:30 p. m.

Professor Krieger will stand at the microphone. Besides him will sit a competent adding machine and comptometer operator. Dave Elman will give them complicated problems in addition, subtraction, long division and multiplication, and it will be man against machine.

Also on the program will be Robert MacGimsey, composer of "Shadrak, Meshak and Abednego", whose hobby is whistling in three part harmony; Miss Mamie Volpe, of Pittsburgh, Pa., who devotes her spare time to the history of cookies; and Mrs. B. Henderson of New York with "Singing Susie", a parrot she has taught not only to talk, but to sing and to blow a bugle for relaxation.

ALL-STAR CAST

Orson Welles will head an all-star New York cast which will include George S. Kaufman, Ilka Chase and Tamara Geva when he presents the best-selling novel satirizing Hollywood, "I Lost My Girlish Laughter," on the Playhouse program over CBS at 9 p. m. Friday.

The author of the novel, a Hollywood secretary who used the

WLW TO CARRY FIGHT

The world's heavyweight championship fight between Joe Louis, the title-holder, and John Henry Lewis, world's light heavyweight champion, will be described over WLW-NBC Wednesday, beginning at 10 p. m. The battle is scheduled to go 15 rounds, and will take place in New York's Madison Square Garden.

Both fighters are said to be "in the pink" for the event. The Brown Bomber has been going through his paces at Madame Bey's training camp in Summit, N. J., and Lewis is preparing for the fight at Dr. Bier's camp in Pompton Lakes, N. J.

The sure route to Jobs!

Let's lift up our eyes from the short range view of America.

All of us have been living through difficult times, but anyone who knows the spirit that built America knows that these times must pass.

And just as transportation originally built America, so railroads, as the nation's basic transportation system today, must be ready to carry the banner of future advance.

As all experience shows, a railroad is never finished. To keep its service abreast of the times—to step up its schedules with safety—to keep the cost of transportation low—it needs continuously to replace the old with the new.

What that can mean in jobs and purchases will be seen by such a modest estimate as this:

To replace 5% of the freight cars in service would call for 88,326 new freight cars every year, and to build one freight car provides 1,987 man-hours of work.

To replace 5% of all locomotives in service would call for 2,234 locomotives—each providing work for 50 men for one year.

To continue the work of reducing grades, straightening curves, building stronger track, installing safety signals, and the like, at the same rate as in the years from 1926 to 1936, would call for somewhat more than $300,000,000 a year.

Here is a rebuilding program which would set axes ringing in the forests and coal and ore rolling from the mines, which would keep men busy in the ruddy glow of the steel mills—a program which would help farmers, labor, shippers, and be a real contribution to national defense.

The American railroads are ready to press forward with this program, if they can get the means—with the same spirit that has brought such tremendous strides in the past, and now provides the finest transportation in the world.

EAGLES TO OPEN HOME ADDITION WEDNESDAY EVE

Dance, Floor Show For Public Planned By Aerie

MANY MEMBERS ADDED

Organization Enrolls 350; Big Gain Recorded In Four Years

Formal opening of the remodelled and enlarged home of Circleville's Aerie No. 685, Fraternal Order of Eagles, will be held Wednesday night with a dance and floor show.

Activities will start at 8:30 o'clock and continue until midnight. Music and the floor show will be provided by the Jamboree Boys, musical group from W.L.W. Cincinnati. Various prizes will be awarded during the evening. There will be both round and square dancing. The public is invited.

During recent months the entire lodge building has been redecorated, new floors installed, the building reroofed and an addition added to the rear at a cost of about $11,000.

350 In Organization
Increased membership and the need for more space for lodge activities resulted in the extensive improvement program. The lodge has a membership of about 350. Rapid strides have been made in recent years.

Officials report that four years ago the lodge had 85 members and an indebtedness of $11,000. In less than two years the revived organization paid off the indebtedness. Funds were then accumulated for the remodeling program. Sufficient funds have been provided to make the improvements with a debt of only $6,000. Seventy-two new members have been added in the last year.

C. K. Kadel, E. Water street, secretary of the lodge, said the formal opening will include no program of speeches. Leonard Morgan, E. Franklin street, is president of the aerie.

Four rooms on the rear of the old lodge building were removed to make way for the addition, which is of two-story, brick construction with basement. The new addition is 46 by 24 feet.

Lounges Provided
The first floor includes a club room, lounges for men and women, the secretary's office and a cloak room. The second floor includes the lodge room with a kitchen on one side. Dances and social activities will be held in the lodge room. The new lodge room is 64 by 37 feet. The club room is 44 by 23 feet. Shower baths have been installed in the basement.

The general contract was awarded T. M. Barnes. Architectural work was done by Roy Young. Contractors were Moffitt Electric shop, electrical work; Charles Schlegler, plumbing and heating; Phillips Bros., Amanda, decorating, and Floyd Dean, roofing.

BOY SCOUT WEEK RALLY PLANNED ON FEBRUARY 13

A Boy Scout Week rally, for all scouts of the Pickaway district, will be held at Memorial Hall, Monday, Feb. 13. Troops from Ashville, Commercial Point, Williamsport, New Holland, Kingston and Circleville have been invited to take part.

A program of competitive games and movies taken last Summer at the Scout Reservation have been planned for the rally, which will be in charge of the commissioner staff.

Scouts are advised to consult their scoutmasters for details regarding the affair. Other special activities by the various troops of the district and nation-wide publicity will mark the twenty-ninth anniversary of scouting in this country from Feb. 8 to 15, labelled "Boy Scout Week". The public will be invited to the Rally.

TO AID FARMERS
Floyd DeLashmott, extension farm economist of Ohio State university, will be at the Farm Bureau home Friday afternoon to assist Pickaway countians in preparing summaries of their accounts. He will be at the office after 1 p. m. All interested persons are invited to confer with Mr. DeLashmott.

DENNEY CAR STILL GONE
Police were still without any information Tuesday on the car of Robert Denney, Stoutsville box 184, stolen Saturday night from E. Main street just east of Court street. The car is a 1928 Chevrolet sedan bearing license number X-7144.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

"Orphans of the Street", showing Thursday at the Cliftona theatre, is the deeply moving story of a young lad who runs away from military school when the money from his dad's estate runs out, and he finds he will have to be separated from his beloved pal, "Lance," an Alsatian Shepherd dog.

The story swiftly unfolds, showing the lad trying to enter his dog, whom he proudly calls the "best in the world," in a prize dog show with a winner's award of $15,000. But circumstances bring despair, then tragedy to the youth and he finds his canine pal on trial for murder.

Handsome Robert Livingston, as a reporter who befriends the orphan of the streets, and lovely June Storey have the romantic leads, and turn in excellent portrayals. A fine supporting cast includes Ralph Morgan, Sidney Blackmer, James Burke, Harry Davenport and Victor Kilian.

AT THE CIRCLE

Alan Hale, veteran film actor, says that re-enacting the same character on the screen fifteen years after he first played it gave him a feeling that the ghost of the first portrayal was looking over his shoulder at every move he made in his later performance.

"If I were inclined to mysticism," he says, "I would swear that Little John No. 1 was standing right at my elbow, prompting Little John No. 2 every time I was before the cameras, saying, 'That wasn't the way we did it with Fairbanks! You're not doing justice by me, you dolt!' and similar uncomplimentary things."

There are a few cases on record similar to Hale's in which the same player, years afterward, re-enacts the same character, certainly not in pictures. Hale, in 1922, played Little John in Douglas Fairbanks' production of "Robin Hood," and now is playing Little John in Warner Bros. technicolor version of "The Adventures of Robin Hood." Errol Flynn, today's counterpart of the virile, dashing Fairbanks of sixteen years ago, is doing the title role.

STANSBURY AND STOUT BID LOW ON SCHOOL PROJECT

Stansbury and Stout, Circleville contracting firm, Monday, was low bidder on a contract for construction of a new centralized school building at Mt. Perry, south of Zanesville. The school, to be erected with aid of W. P. A., will cost $50,000. The general contract, which Stansbury and Stout sought, was bid at $31,031.

The contractors are working now on an addition at Madison township school, Pickaway county, and have started to work on a big swimming pool in London, O. Work on the Mt. Perry building will start in about two weeks.

STATE'S GAME WARDENS MUST BUY OWN FOOD

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24 — The state's 102 game protectors can bring their own lunches instead of stopping off at a restaurant at the state's expense, H. A. Rider, executive secretary to the conservation commission, informed the board of control today.

Rider made this observation while appearing before the board to request that the conservation department be allowed to spend its $228,425 partial appropriation in four months instead of six.

During a discussion of game protectors Rider revealed that although the men are allowed mileage the conservation department has been honoring vouchers for 1,000 miles a month at $40.

"All the vouchers call for mileage for 1,000 miles," Rider said, "whether the men actually travel that far or not."

Rider added that the conservation department could not operate over six months on the appropriation allowed by the legislature despite the dismissal of 52 employees at a saving of $27,000 in salaries.

In pointing out that further savings were contemplated, Rider declared that hereafter lunch allowances would not be granted and the game protectors on trips would have to "bring their lunch." The control board granted Rider's request.

JEALOUS YOUTH BEATS GIRL, 17, WITH HAMMER

CHICAGO, Jan. 24—As his 17 year old sweetheart lay near death, Fred Olson, 25, today threatened to kill himself in remorse for beating her with a hammer.

The victim of the attack is Doris Wickenkamp, a high school senior who was to have received her diploma on Thursday.

Her skull apparently fractured from the rain of blows, she was given only a slight chance to survive.

Olson's rage cooled quickly after he had battered the girl into unconsciousness and he hurried to an outlying police station.

"I've just killed my girl friend," he gasped to the desk sergeant. "I murdered her with a hammer. She's lying out on the road."

Police took him to the spot but Doris was not there. Reviving after he had departed she had staggered two blocks to a tavern and collapsed on the floor.

Olson said later he and the girl had been going together for more than a year, but he was jealous because she accepted dates with other acquaintances.

EAGLES TO OPEN HOME ADDITION WEDNESDAY EVE

Dance, Floor Show For Public Planned By Aerie

MANY MEMBERS ADDED

Organization Enrolls 350; Big Gain Recorded In Four Years

Formal opening of the remodelled and enlarged home of Circleville's Aerie No. 685, Fraternal Order of Eagles, will be held Wednesday night with a dance and floor show.

Activities will start at 8:30 o'clock and continue until midnight. Music and the floor show will be provided by the Jamboree Boys, musical group from WLW, Cincinnati. Various prizes will be awarded during the evening. There will be both round and square dancing. The public is invited.

During recent months the entire lodge building has been redecorated, new floors installed, the building reroofed and an addition added to the rear at a cost of about $11,000.

350 In Organization
Increased membership and the need for more space for lodge activities resulted in the extensive improvement program. The lodge has a membership of about 350. Rapid strides have been made in recent years.

Officials report that four years ago the lodge had 85 members and an indebtedness of $11,000. In less than two years the revived organization paid off the indebtedness. Funds were then accumulated for the remodeling program. Sufficient funds have been provided to make the improvements with a debt of only $6,000. Seventy-two new members have been added in the last year.

C. K. Kadel, E. Water street, secretary of the lodge, said the formal opening will include no program of speeches. Leonard Morgan, E. Franklin street, is president of the aerie.

Four rooms on the rear of the old lodge building were removed to make way for the addition, which is of two-story, brick construction with basement. The new addition is 46 by 24 feet.

Lounges Provided

The first floor includes a club room, lounges for men and women, the secretary's office and a cloak room. The second floor includes the lodge room with a kitchen on one side. Dances and social activities will be held in the lodge room. The new lodge room is 64 by 37 feet. The club room is 44 by 23 feet. Shower baths have been installed in the basement.

The general contract was awarded T. M. Barnes. Architectural work was done by Roy Young. Contractors were Moffitt Electric shop, electrical work; Charles Schlegler, plumbing and heating; Phillips Bros., Amanda, decorating, and Floyd Dean, roofing.

BOY SCOUT WEEK RALLY PLANNED ON FEBRUARY 13

A Boy Scout Week rally, for all scouts of the Pickaway district, will be held at Memorial Hall, Monday, Feb. 13. Troops from Ashville, Commercial Point, Williamsport, New Holland, Kingston and Circleville have been invited to take part.

A program of competitive games and movies taken last Summer at the Scout Reservation have been planned for the rally, which will be in charge of the commissioner staff.

Scouts are advised to consult their scoutmasters for details regarding the affair. Other special activities by the various troops of the district and nation-wide publicity will mark the twenty-ninth anniversary of scouting in this country from Feb. 8 to 15, labelled "Boy Scout Week". The public will be invited to the Rally.

TO AID FARMERS

Floyd DeLashmuth, extension farm economist of Ohio State university, will be at the Farm Bureau home Friday afternoon to assist Pickaway countians in preparing summaries of their accounts. He will be at the office after 1 p. m. All interested persons are invited to confer with Mr. DeLashmuth.

DENNEY CAR STILL GONE

Police were still without any information Tuesday on the car of Robert Denney, Stoutsville box 184, stolen Saturday night from E. Main street just east of Court street. The car is a 1928 Chevrolet sedan bearing license number X-7144.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

"Orphans of the Street", showing Thursday at the Cliftona theatre, is the deeply moving story of a young lad who runs away from military school when the money from his dad's estate runs out, and he finds he will have to be separated from his beloved pal, "Lance," an Alsatian Shepherd dog.

The story swiftly unfolds, showing the lad trying to enter his dog, whom he proudly calls the "best in the world," in a prize dog show with a winner's award of $15,000. But circumstances bring despair, then tragedy to the youth and he finds his canine pal on trial for murder.

Handsome Robert Livingston, as a reporter who befriends the orphan of the streets, and lovely June Storey have the romantic leads, and turn in excellent portrayals. A fine supporting cast includes Ralph Morgan, Sidney Blackmer, James Burke, Harry Davenport and Victor Kilian.

AT THE CIRCLE

Alan Hale, veteran film actor, says that re-enacting the same character on the screen fifteen years after he first played it gave him a feeling that the ghost of the first portrayal was looking over his shoulder at every move he made in his later performance.

"If I were inclined to mysticism," he says, "I would swear that Little John No. 1 was standing right at my elbow, prompting Little John No. 2 every time I was before the cameras, saying, 'That wasn't the way we did it with Fairbanks! You're not doing justice by me, you dolt!' and similar uncomplimentary things."

There are a few cases on record similar to Hale's in which the same player, years afterward, re-enacts the same character, certainly not in pictures. Hale, in 1922, played Little John in Douglas Fairbanks' production of "Robin Hood," and now is playing Little John in Warner Bros.' technicolor version of "The Adventures of Robin Hood." Errol Flynn, today's counterpart of the virile, dashing Fairbanks of sixteen years ago, is doing the title role.

STANSBURY AND STOUT BID LOW ON SCHOOL PROJECT

Stansbury and Stout, Circleville contracting firm, Monday, was low bidder on a contract for construction of a new centralized school building at Mt. Perry, south of Zanesville. The school, to be erected with aid of W. P. A., will cost $50,000. The general contract, which Stansbury and Stout sought, was bid at $31,031.

The contractors are working now on an addition at Madison township school, Pickaway county, and have started to work on a big swimming pool in London, O.

Work on the Mt. Perry building will start in about two weeks.

STATE'S GAME WARDENS MUST BUY OWN FOOD

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24 — The state's 102 game protectors can bring their own lunches instead of stopping off at a restaurant at the state's expense, H. A. Rider, executive secretary to the conservation commission, informed the board of control today.

Rider made this observation while appearing before the board to request that the conservation department be allowed to spend its $228,425 partial appropriation in four months instead of six.

During a discussion of game protectors Rider revealed that although the men are allowed mileage the conservation department has been honoring vouchers for 1,000 miles a month at $40.

"All the vouchers call for mileage for 1,000 miles," Rider said, "whether the men actually travel that far or not."

Rider added that the conservation department could not operate over six months on the appropriation allowed by the legislature despite the dismissal of 52 employees at a saving of $27,000 in salaries.

In pointing out that further savings were contemplated, Rider declared that hereafter lunch allowances would not be granted and the game protectors on trips would have to "bring their lunch." The control board granted Rider's request.
